AND LAST BUT NOT LEAST – A FINAL WORD FROM SANTA...

Dear Children of St George's Primary School,

What a delight it was to receive your wonderful letters, all the way here in Lapland. The elves and I gathered around the fire to read every single one!

And do you know what made me smile even more? I was so happy to visit St George's Christmas Fayre and spend time in the grotto with some of you. Seeing your bright faces, hearing your excited voices, and sharing a little Christmas magic together was very special indeed. I even heard some of you say, "I've written to you already, Santa!"

I was very impressed by how polite you all were. So many pleases and thank yous! That is something I always notice, whether I'm in Lapland or sitting in a cosy grotto, and it tells me you have kind and thoughtful hearts.

Your Christmas wishes were full of imagination and excitement. I heard about yo-yos spinning through the air, shiny new bikes ready for adventures, Real Madrid football kits, games consoles with extra controllers for sharing, cosy winter pyjamas, soft Ugg boots, trainers that many of you love, Barbies and even a very special Dream House, Squishmallows for cuddles, toy cars, toy trains... The elves were very busy taking notes!

I must give a special jingle of my bell to the child who was very honest and said they had been a little bit naughty but mostly nice. Ho ho ho! That kind of honesty makes Santa very proud indeed. Remember, everyone makes mistakes sometimes — what matters most is trying your best and being kind.

I can tell that you have all worked hard at school, helped others, and tried to do the right thing this year. Keep listening to your teachers, helping at home, and being good friends to one another — that magic lasts far longer than Christmas morning.

Now, I can't say exactly what will arrive on Christmas Eve (Santa must keep a little mystery!), but please know that your letters have been read, remembered, and tucked safely into my big red sack of Christmas wishes.

Thank you for writing to me — and thank you for making my visit to your school so magical. Keep believing, keep being kind, and don't forget to sprinkle a little Christmas magic wherever you go.

Wishing you a joyful Christmas and a very happy New Year,

Santa Claus
